

Baltic Church Planting “FAST” Track Enrollment Form

Why This Training?

Our CP-21 church planter training strategy is to bring the training to the students at regional sites. This strategy has many advantages over traditional models, which require travel or relocation to a Bible school, college or seminary:

- Many may be trained who would not otherwise be able to attend
- Trainees can keep their jobs and maintain financial stability
- Trainees maintain their church, family and other support relationships
- Trainees can cultivate current church, work, neighborhood and family relationships for the core group of the church plant.

What Training is Provided?

The training is held in the evenings over the course of two years, and is arranged topically. Our trainers consist of a rotation of national pastors and planters, missionaries, and trainers from overseas.

What Makes This Training Work?

Each trainee is required to have an identified mentor, who:

- Holds students accountable
- Provides the consistency necessary to balance itinerant trainers
- Ministers to each trainee according to their personal strengths and weaknesses.

Our desire is to work in, with and through the local church, and in most cases the mentors are the trainee’s local church pastor. Training is offered September through May, with practical assignments and mentoring sessions scheduled between sessions. Summers will be devoted to implementation, as the trainees hold outreach events in their target location.

What Does This Training Cost?

There is no cost to the students who receive this training. The total cost to the CP-21 ministry to provide this training to over 50 students in four locations is about $35,000 over the course of the two years.
